

Volunteer Leader Covenant: The United Methodist Church of the Resurrection

Leaders are among those who fulfill the biblical roles of elders and deacons, shepherds and teachers. In the New Testament, leaders were held to high standards. Paul set forth attributes for leaders who were to live "above reproach." Peter, likewise, challenged leaders to be "examples to the flock." As leaders, we set the pace by modeling the Christian life for our congregation and help shape the heart and character of this church. It is vital for leaders at Resurrection to walk the Christian walk because spiritually healthy leaders produce a spiritually healthy church.

Who We Are

Our Purpose: to build a Christian Community where non-religious and nominally religious people are becoming deeply committed Christians.

Our Vision: changing lives, transforming communities and renewing churches.

Our Journey: knowing, loving and serving God.

We are a United Methodist congregation, and our leaders uphold our heritage by pursuing ministry in keeping with our tradition. We seek to be orthodox in faith, generous in spirit, broadminded, passionately devoted to Christ, and wholly surrendered to God. We strive for personal holiness and inviting people into a life-transforming relationship with Jesus Christ. We also pursue social holiness in the public sphere by addressing key issues of our time so that our world will look more like the Kingdom of God. United Methodists are willing to ask difficult questions, take on challenging subjects and admit we don't always have every answer.

United Methodists are "people of the Book," whose faith is firmly rooted in and built upon the scriptures. We hold the Bible to be divinely inspired and are committed to live by its words. We also recognize the Bible was written by people who heard God in the light of their own cultural and historical circumstances. As such, we make use of scholarship and study the scriptures carefully. When we encounter theological differences among Christians, we bear in mind John Wesley's approach, "in essentials, unity; in nonessentials, liberty; in all things, charity." United Methodists share a common heritage with other Christians, holding to the historic essentials of the Christian faith.

We believe the goal of the Christian life is to love God with all your heart, soul, mind and strength, and to love your neighbor as you love yourself. From the beginning of the Methodist movement, we were known as "reasonable enthusiasts," those who are both emotionally and intellectually engaged. We value passionate worship, relevant preaching, small groups to hold Christians accountable to one another, and serving those who are in need. We value the spiritual disciplines and take a "methodical" approach to growing in the faith. United Methodists value the full participation of women and men, people of all backgrounds in every facet of fellowship and leadership within the church and society.

This is our heritage, and it continues to shape the Church of the Resurrection in every area of our ministry.

Leader Commitments

Three General Rules of Methodist Societies:

We continue the tradition of commitment to the "General Rules" John Wesley established to guide Methodists in the pursuit of sanctification, or what Wesley referred to as "Christian perfection."

1. Avoid things that would separate us from God, or bring harm to others.
2. Do good of every possible sort.
3. Pursue growth in our spiritual lives.

Leader Attributes:

Leaders embody our church's best values. These guide our hiring and evaluation and call our leaders toward a vigorous pursuit of the Christian life and effective service.

Christ Centered

- Through actions and words, shows a personal desire to know, love and serve God.
- Highly engaged in achieving the church's purpose, vision and journey.

Committed

Church Engagement:

Leaders set the pace of commitment for the church. As such, we commit to fulfill and exceed the membership expectations at Resurrection.

Worship	Attend each weekend, in person whenever possible.
Grow	Commit to personal spiritual growth and small group participation.
Serve	Volunteer both inside and outside the walls of the church.
Give	Contribute financially, with the tithe being the goal.
Share	Bear witness to faith in Jesus Christ, through word and deed.

Leader Standards of Practice:

How will Resurrection's leaders live toward one another?

1. Demonstrating respect and grace
2. Accepting differences
3. Maintaining appropriate confidentiality
4. Publicly supporting other leaders, pastors and staff members
5. Going directly to the individual whenever a problem arises

How will Resurrection's leaders serve the church?

1. Regular attendance at meetings
2. Arriving prepared at meetings
3. Participating during meetings
4. Taking on outside work from meetings
5. Positively representing the church

I have read the above and am committed to living my life and pursuing ministry in a way that is consistent with these expectations, and desire to do so at the United Methodist Church of the Resurrection.
